

Event Summary

Where: Cleopatra Hotel (Nicosia, Cyprus)

When: October 4th – 5th, 2018

Who should attend? What to expect? This is a private, by-invitation event by investors for investors. The goals of the event are: 1) Sharing of knowledge, information and wisdom by participants. Majority of participants contribute via presentation of investment idea or topic or an impromptu Q&A or panel discussion. 2) The development of friendships between value investors (aka networking). 3) Everyone walks away with a tangible benefit.

Have ideas been valuable? Excellent ideas have been presented in the past (eg. Bank of America, Fiat Chrysler, Lukoil) and even themes emerged. For example in 2016 there was a stock focus on banks while in 2017 there was on retail. Subsequently in both cases multiple opportunities appeared in these industries. Personally, I've made money on 2 ideas I invested in, avoided value traps and learned a great deal about industries, investment approaches and process.

Event rule: During the whole event, please refrain from all unsolicited pitches - whether of investment or of business propositions. You should of course, feel free to respond to genuine enquiries of interest from other participants. Our goal in doing this is to create an environment that is conducive to learning and sharing. We have learned that some of our highest valued participants will not come if they think that they will be accosted by enthusiastic salespeople. During the event, there are plenty of networking opportunities so once everyone gets to know each other, any future business happens on its own and thus sales pitches are not required.
